SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION OF CHRISTOPHER DARROW IN SUPPORT OF THE DECLARATION OF PRIOR INVENTION IN THE UNITED STATES UNDER 37 C.F.R. § 1.131

I, Christopher Darrow, do hereby declare as follows:

1. I am a registered United States Patent Attorney at Greenberg Traurig LLP and was responsible for the preparation and filing of United States Provisional Patent Application Number 60/421,255, filed on October 25, 2002, the priority provisional application to the above-identified nonprovisional application.
2. One of my direct clients has been Disney Enterprises, Inc., since prior to April 2002.
3. All of the documents provided as exhibits to this declaration were created in the United States and/or memorialize events that took place in the United States.
4. This declaration is submitted in support of the above-identified Applicants' Declaration under 37 CFR 1.131 filed on September 11, 2006 and my Declaration filed June 5, 2007, establishing conception of Applicants' claimed invention prior to September 3, 2002, and further establishing diligence toward the constructive reduction to practice of the invention(s) claimed in the above identified application from prior to at least September 3, 2002 to the filing of Applicants' priority provisional application filing date of October 25, 2002.

5. On May 10, 2002, I sent a preliminary draft provisional application for this subject matter to Don Wenskey at Disney. During the period from May 10, 2002 to July 17, 2002, I communicated frequently with and worked with Mr. Wenskey and the inventors regarding the drawings and disclosure of the preliminary draft provisional application. On July 17, 2002 I opened matter 054317.022500 specifically for continued preparation of this provisional application. The two month period from the time I sent the preliminary draft application to Mr. Wenskey until I opened a matter for the application is very reasonable and not unusual when communicating with inventors in the initial stage of a disclosure. As is shown in my original Declaration, between sending the preliminary draft application to Mr. Wenskey, Mr. Wenskey sending the preliminary draft application to the inventors for review, and telephone conversations with the inventors to correctly disclose the invention, two months passed by, which is completely normal.

6. From July 17, 2002 to August 8, 2002 I continued to work diligently on the draft provisional application, when time permitted, based on work which had the greatest priority, as is evidenced by my time record provided in Exhibit A. The evidence in Exhibit A shows that from July 1, 2002 to August 8, 2002 my workload included the work of 24 different clients and 68 different matters for those clients. I worked diligently on these 68 matters on a daily basis, taking them in turn based on their priority.

7. In general, courts have held that a rule of reason should apply in determining attorney diligence. "We agree ... that a rule of reason should be followed in cases of this kind and that courts should be somewhat liberal in determination of diligence of attorneys and their clerical and stenographic staffs, since the law cannot presume that such people can immediately begin and expeditiously perform their duties as soon as work appears on their desks." D'Amico v. Koike, 347 F.2d 867, 871 (CCPA 1965). "Reasonable diligence does not require a patent attorney engaged in a normal practice to concentrate on any one application to the exclusion of others.” Martus & Becker v. Heise, 17 CCPA 1083, 39 F.2d 715, 5 USPQ 74, and Farmer et al. v. Schweyer, 21 CCPA 865, 68 F.2d 961, 20 USPQ 281. It is not unusual for an attorney to intermittently work on matters of moderate priority or even high priority as time is available for the task to be conducted or completed. An attorney may be working diligently on one matter and something of higher priority may come along so that the other matter has to be put aside for some time before it can be worked on again.

8. The courts have held that it may not be possible for a patent attorney to begin working on an application at the moment the inventor makes the disclosure, because the attorney may already have a backlog of other cases demanding his attention. The courts have further held that it is not necessary that an inventor or his attorney should drop all other work and concentrate on the particular invention involved. From my experience working as a patent attorney for 37 years, two months has always been a VERY reasonable amount of time to draft a patent application. In Sekine v. Seely, 826 F.2d 1073, (Fed. Cir. 1987), the court held that fifteen weeks is not an excessive amount of time to prepare a patent application for purposes of attorney diligence.

9. On August 8, 2002 I assigned one of our patent agents, Margo Maddux, whom I directly supervised, the drafting responsibility for preparation of the revised provisional application. This does not mean that Ms. Maddux could immediately begin working on this matter. On this same day, August 8, 2002, Ms. Maddux had worked on 3 different matters for Disney as is evidenced by Ms. Maddux’s time record provided in Exhibit B. During the period between August 8, 2002 and October 25, 2002, Ms. Maddux’s workload included the work of 12 different clients and 39 different matters for those clients. Ms. Maddux, under my supervision, and that of others, worked diligently on all these tasks on a daily basis, taking them in turn based on their priority and date of assignment to her docket, with the exception of normal days off, as is evidenced by Margo’s time record provided in Exhibit B. There are no facts of record to indicate that Ms. Maddux was deliberately inactive.

10. Neither I nor Ms. Maddux abandoned this application at any time or lacked attorney diligence in its preparation from just before the critical date of September 3, 2002 to the date of filing of the provisional application.

11. On October 9, 2002, Ms. Maddux reviewed the invention disclosure and the draft provisional application. During the two months from August 8, 2002 to October 9, 2002 Ms. Maddux had a backlog of cases/matters that she diligently worked on. As is shown in Exhibit B, Ms. Maddux has a backlog of priority work she focused on and diligently worked on during this period and therefore, was unable to precisely start drafting the revised provisional application until October 9, 2002. This activity is clearly consistent with normal patent practitioner scheduling of work and does not constitute a lack of diligence in preparation.

12. As is shown in Exhibit B, on October 14, 2002 Ms. Maddux received a new invention disclosure and compared this to the previous disclosure. On October 15 and October 16 of 2002, Ms. Maddux prepared and worked on the draft provisional application. On October 17, 2002 Ms. Maddux transmitted the draft provisional application to the inventors for their review. On October 22, 2002 Ms. Maddux had a telephone conference with one of the inventors. On October 23, 2002 Ms. Maddux revised the draft application according to the inventor's comments. On October 24, 2002 Ms. Maddux sent a second draft application to the inventors and had a telephone conference with the inventors.

13. In the normal course of business at a law firm such as Greenberg Traurig, each patent attorney and agent handles a large docket of matters. A normal day, week, or month of an attorney's work includes working on multiple matters all during the same time period. Ms. Maddux clearly worked on at least two matters every day; never concealed, abandoned or deliberately made the application inactive; and, consistent with workload priorities, continued to work diligently on patent matters until her workload allowed for her to continue work on the revised draft patent application, as is shown from the evidence in Exhibit B.

14. The integrity of Greenberg Traurig LLP's files and records have been maintained since at least April 19, 2002. These records have not been altered in any way following the date of each entry. Portions of Exhibits A and B have been redacted, however, to remove those items that have no bearing on the present Declaration.

I further declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code and that willful false statements or the like may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patent issuing thereon.
